Born in Siena, Italy, in 1990, I've always attended classics schools. But when I first opened Photoshop, everything changed: I wanted to become a designer. Highly motivated, passionate, and dedicated graduate student with a high cultural and multidisciplinary background, I possess excellent communication and English language skills, teamwork, problem-solving, thanks also to my experience as a boy scout. I'm very interested in Digital Design that involves technology and networks; that's why I truly believe that internet, big data and connections will be one of the main topic of studies in next years.
